The Yellow Gault & Millau guide was created over 50 years ago in France. The best restaurants are awarded chefs' toques. The number of toques indicates the rank of the restaurant and the quality level of the dishes served. Every year, a team of a dozen or so completely anonymous inspectors scrupulously evaluate about a thousand places in Poland. Standards are high, and less than half of the reviewed places are included in the guide. Gault & Millau Poland also promotes chefs who are passionate about nurturing traditional Polish flavours and promoting great quality products and their producers.
